

Composite Astrology Report for Kurt Russell / Goldie Hawn

Introduction

A well-known saying often ascribed to Aristotle suggests that 'the whole is greater than the sum of its parts'. In essence this is the nature of the Composite or Combined chart, in that the alchemical combination of two individuals can create a relationship greater than the two. The secret is in working together to create this possibility. Hence, like the individual birth chart, the Composite chart holds the potential for fulfilment and each individual either takes hold of or rejects this potential. In many cases the potential of the Composite chart never manifests because the individuals involved are not working together to ignite the possibilities of their relationship. It's also true that not every relationship is a positive one, much as this might be the wish. The Composite chart can shed light on the true nature of each relationship.

Another way of describing the combined energies expressed in the astrological Composite chart is by using the word "synergy". Synergy is the dynamic force that is a result of working together to achieve something greater. The New Oxford Dictionary defines "synergy" as 'the interactions or co-operation of two or more organisations, substances or other agents to produce a combined effect greater than the sum of their separate effects'. This is the underlying premise of the combined chart: that the astrological combination of two horoscopes can generate cosmic alignments more powerful than the individuals separately. The interpretation of a Composite chart is a means of engaging in this mystery.

Astrologically, a combined chart is calculated by taking an average, midpoint or mean amount between two or more horoscopes to generate a single chart. This single chart is often referred to as the Composite chart and takes two or more individuals in relationship and produces a single Composite horoscope to represent the soul or nature of the relationship. This technique can be useful in ascertaining patterns, challenges and timing in the relationship itself. However, it does not describe each individual's relationship needs. For instance a combined chart may describe an intense synergy of two people. What happens when only one of the two people wishes for intensity? Conflict may occur or the relationship may simply dissolve. This report is intended by the authors to describe the potential of each combined duo, the alchemy. The choice of whether to pursue the "gold" in each relationship remains an individual one.

THE HEART OF YOUR RELATIONSHIP

"Hear my soul speak. Of the very instant that I saw you, Did my heart fly at your service"

-- William Shakespeare, The Tempest.

The Sun

The Composite Sun represents the heart of your relationship. Here you see the nature of your relationship, the way in which the two of you meld your personalities and the attributes that are highlighted when you come together. To a certain extent the placement of your Composite Sun can also indicate the way in which other people view your relationship, however, this very personal combination more likely sheds light on how the two of you come together. It depicts what sustains the two of you as a couple. It is important that you view this placement in the light of your own personal Astrology Chart, and your own needs within a relationship. For instance your Composite Sun may show that intensity is central to a particular relationship. If you, personally, crave an intense connection with another person then this will be a welcome combination. However, if you crave freedom and light-hearted associations then you are likely to balk at an intense connection with another person. Generally speaking the House Placement of your Composite Sun can show you the nature of your relationship i.e. whether or not this is a personal connection or something more akin to friendship or co-worker. The Sign Placement will show you more about the nature of the relationship. The Composite Sun and its astrological correlations also depict the enduring qualities of your relationship.

The Sun is in the 1st House

This is a dynamic and powerful relationship, which is more likely to fare well if you are business partners, or members of a team, but can also have a beneficial influence for an intimate personal relationship. Together you present as a potent couple. Others see you as a dynamic duo ready to take on the world. They are likely to support your association, and may even encourage you to form a bond. As such you can see why this can be a wonderful combination for a business couple, or anyone wanting to "sell" something to the public. You have couple charisma. On a personal level you are both eager to put your best foot forward, to make this union work. However, you may also compete for the attention. Who is the giver and who is the taker? Who is the leader and who is the follower? Can you share these roles? It is unlikely with this combination. If your bond is business, or another contractual bond, then you are likely to enjoy the thrust and parry of this association. However, co-operation not competition is more likely to help a personal relationship thrive on a long-term basis. A need to always be on the alert, selling your point of view to the world can be exhilarating in your career, a sports arena or an organization. However, it can be wearing in a marriage. If you are looking for an exciting and challenging partnership then is the right combination for you. However, if you are looking for a marriage that provides a soft landing then you may prefer to look for a different combination.

The Sun is Conjunct Venus

The combination of these two Cosmic entities is a significant indicator of love, although not necessarily sexual desire. The attraction is strong. You feel drawn to each other, but other astrological aspects of your combined charts will show whether or not this is a sexual attraction or platonic affection. Either way you enjoy each other's company, sharing a common sense of pleasure and this augurs well for marriage, friendship, business and family relations. If you are considering, or are involved in, a romantic union, then this could accentuate sexual desires, however; it can also mean that you share an interest in the arts, fashion, money or another congenial activity. In some cases a strong connection between the Sun and the planet of love can indicate a desire to share investments, or a common sense of morals. One or both of you feel that your association is a social or monetary boon, adding value to your respective lives. This is an ideal combination if you are considering entering into marriage, or if you are already married, as you both feel at ease. You are easily affectionate, warm and friendly, knowing how to give each other pleasurable experiences. You enjoy the same social outings, and friends enjoy your company. As a couple you receive more social invitations than you may on your own. Therefore you delight in the company of your loved ones. Dancing, shopping, dinner parties, and special occasions of any kind are all on your calendar. You can gain much joy from this association.

THE SOUL OF YOUR RELATIONSHIP

“Quotation”

-- Author, US 16th President

The Moon

As the indication of attachment and the barometer of emotional security, the Moon is especially important in the Composite charts of dependants, like mother-child relationships, couples with children and/or long-term committed partners living together or even flat mates. In your relationship, the Composite Moon's House position suggests where you both might build the foundations for your emotional wellbeing and where you share in the shelter of each other. Your Composite Moon signifies the emotional comfort levels in your relationship and what is needed to help secure your relationship. It is where you find the feelings of belonging and even the atmosphere and ambience needed in your home and private spaces to help nurture and grow your relationship together. The Composite Moon represents the conditions that help you both to feel at home. For instance, are there many moves? a permanent address? Or could you live interstate or overseas? The Moon is instinctual; in your Natal charts it suggests the habits and familial themes you both bring into the relationship, but in the Composite chart it suggests the innate patterns and rituals that are natural to your relationship. Do you fit together easily, ride the ups and downs of life together or does the relationship falter at times of stress and difficulty? Is the relationship familiar and safe? These are reflective questions addressed by your Composite Moon

The Moon reflects the many aspects of living in rhythm together. In a particular House it describes what areas of life are necessary to cultivate in order that you both feel safe and secure in your relationship. By astrological Aspect it suggests other forces that challenge and strengthen the security of the relationship. Ultimately the Moon is about emotional security and safety and its position in the composite chart addresses these levels of your relationship.

The Moon is in the 4th House

With your Composite Moon in the 4th House, feeling safe and having a place to belong is important. So is family. The Composite chart maps out the song lines of your life together; therefore it suggests that family begins in your relationship. Emotional security and safety depends upon the preservation, maintenance and support of your relationship. For some that might be a more traditional image, for others, an unorthodox one. It does not really matter what the picture looks like, more what supports it from underneath. And what builds a strong base is your innermost emotional life, the rituals of being together at home, the task of creating a hearth and the joys of homemaking. Home is wherever the relationship feels safe; it does not need to be fixed to one spot but begins with feeling at home with each other, in the shelter of each other's care. There is depth to your relationship and creating emotional security and a home base together brings meaning and soul to your lives.

Having said that, it is also important to point out that together you will be good at locating property and improving the value of real estate. Therefore property, where to buy and what is important, but remember what is most important is that the place you have is the outer image of your inner secure nest. Together it is important to recognise the boundaries between home and career, the house and the business and the household and the workplace. The imprints of each of your family of origins may have left a mark; therefore it might be liberating to reflect on each one's family roots and your backgrounds to see how you are now in the position of creating a new family tree. It is important to clarify your needs, responsibilities and expectations around both your family of origin and your family of choice. Do not underestimate the importance of family and their connections to your relationship; however, it is also imperative to recognise that it is your relationship that needs nurturing first and foremost, then you will be in a better position to take care of others. The composite moon invites you to create a warm and sheltering nest together.

COMMUNING AND CONVERSING

"I know no ways to mince it in love, but directly to say 'I love you'."
-- William Shakespeare, Henry V

Mercury

Mercury moves faster than any other planet in our solar system; therefore the ancients likened it to their many-faced and fleet-footed god Mercury. Similarly the alchemists named the element known for its quickness of movement after him. Mythic Mercury had many roles as a guide, boundary-crosser, the guardian of flocks and the shepherd of dreams, the messenger god, charmer, trickster, the god of commerce, healer and guide. Where there's a trick, a chance meeting, sleight of hand or a hint of magic, Mercury is somewhere nearby. Astrologically Mercury is associated with the process of learning, objectifying thoughts, communicating, sharing ideas and making conversation. It rules two signs, Gemini and Virgo, which reflect the duality and dexterity of Mercury's approach to the schoolroom of life. Mercury is never static, always in motion and it is a priority when comparing horoscopes, for without adequate communication and interchange a relationship can falter and ultimately fail. Composite Mercury describes the intellectual aspect of your partnership; it is the meeting of minds and your ability to both brainstorm together and mutually discuss important issues.

In the Composite chart the aspects to Mercury reveal the lines of communication natural to your relationship. Aspects are important as the planets in aspect to Mercury influence the nature of communication and the feelings of being heard and understood. Its House position tells us about the areas of life where communication for your relationship is natural and most effective, where you learn and communicate together and what skills you might develop and draw on to improve your communication. Basically Mercury in the Composite chart is your language as a couple, how you speak and converse together, the ideas that you share as one, your joint understanding or the disagreements that you need to focus on. When addressing Mercury in the Composite chart, the astrologer is concerned with the how the ideas, communication, language and plans of the relationship can be effectively shared and understood. Being dualistic by nature and willing to see both sides, the archetype of Mercury is akin to relating. How you honour Mercury energetically in your relationship is through communication, movement, humour and the expression of ideas. How we can be more specific about your relationship follows.

Mercury is in the 1st House

The planet Mercury in the 1st House of your combined chart is akin to the image of Mercury rising. When we think about Mercury rising usually we are thinking about things heating up or the temperature getting a bit hotter. In mythology it is the image of Mercury ascending from the Underworld and usually he is escorting someone out of the dungeon of the nether world. Either way it conjures up images of a powerful mercurial side to your relationship, something that is up front and noticeable. As a couple you are likely to share ease of movement and conversation, the expression of ideas and the fluidity of your insights. As a team you are able to navigate the most complex of situations and are often able to demonstrate a camaraderie for each other and those around you. As a team you are infectious and have everyone listening to your stories and laughing at your jokes. You lighten the atmosphere. No wonder you are invited out a lot. However you may also unwittingly bring things to the surface that are contentious. A slip of the tongue, a forgotten name, a throwaway line might just land both of you in hot water. Therefore it's safe to say that when the two of you show up, things get going.

Together you have a great intellectual curiosity and compatibility. You love to debate. Others think you're arguing. You love to discuss. Others think you're intellectualising. But together it doesn't really matter what others think as long as you both are thinking along the same lines. Variety is a key to your relationship and so you might chop and change your opinions a bit more frequently than your friends or find yourselves changing rooms or suburbs quite a bit. Change is necessary to help your relationship feel alive; therefore it is best to recognise that at times you need to drag things out into the open before you're able to take the next step forward. Having a stimulating project together or a plan of escape does wonders. You find the intellectual and emotional stimulation you need in each other's arms. Of course that's when you're not waving hello or goodbye to someone or frantically trying to get someone else's attention.

LOVE AND DESIRES (Venus and Mars)

“Hear my soul speak:
The very instant that I saw you, did
My heart fly to your service.”
-- William Shakespeare, The Tempest

Venus

Venus is the Goddess of Love. Therefore her placement in a combined chart is one of the key indicators of a love relationship, depending on where she resides. This benevolent goddess also shows us where a partnership is happiest whether it is a love bond, business partnerships, friendship, or family tie. What do you enjoy doing together? Where can you find your pleasure, alleviate the hardships of life and find solace in each other? Ardour can be sexual and based in love, but it can also be a shared passion for cause, activity, interest or making money. If the planet Venus is well placed in a combined chart then a couple can enjoy sharing mutual interests and desires. However, if there is some astrological affliction you may have difficulty satisfying each other's desires. In other words this is a vital planet when it comes to assessing the success, or otherwise, of any relationship. You are most happy when you remember the saying by author Jean Anouilh, ‘Love is, above all else, the gift of oneself.’

Venus is in the 1st House

You are attracted to each other's personal qualities. This is likely to be a physical attraction, in that you appreciate each other's physical looks and enjoy a loving and tactile relationship, however; it is not necessarily sexual. You may have common passions, interests and physical traits that you each find appealing. Together you explore health and happiness whether this is simply playing a fun game, or exploring the meaning of life. It all becomes pleasurable when you are together. This association is likely to be loving, but other aspects of your combined astrology will provide the clues as to whether or not it is a romantic liaison, or something other than friendship based on common ground. Either way your friends and colleagues are likely to note the spark that occurs when the two of you are together. You present as a couple, whether you mean to or not. The obvious pleasure that you share in each other's company is infectious and those around you respond with warmth and conviviality. As a couple you receive attention that you might not receive as individuals. Your popularity can also result in gifts, monetary rewards and generally increased bounty. For this reason you may discover that you work well together. If you are in a marriage-like union then you are likely to join forces to promote a particular hobby, pastime or work project. Your popularity as a couple can also have obvious professional or business benefits if you are working together to promote a work campaign, or specific cause.

Venus is Trine Mars

This is the ideal combination for a creative and productive partnership. You are likely to feel at ease in each other's company, and may also feel attracted on a sexual level. Love and sex combine easily in this union, although you do need to be wary of taking each other for granted. If you consciously keep the sexual and romantic spark in your relationship then you are likely to enjoy a strong and natural attraction. It is also possible that this partnership is not sexual, but rather a joining of forces for creative purposes. Professionally you could work together on an artistic project, designing or creating something that brings out the best in both of you. However, if you are free to explore a sexual union then this is likely to be a natural and enjoyable side to your relationship.

GROWTH AND COMMITMENT

“My bounty is as boundless as the sea,
My love as deep; the more I give to thee,
The more I have, for both are infinite.”
-- William Shakespeare, Romeo and Juliet

Jupiter

Relationships are a work in progress. The union of two people can never be taken for granted. A relationship is a process, and a constantly changing one. Like a garden relationships need tending. When attended to on a daily basis, a relationships grows and love flourishes, like the plants that thrive weed and pest free in the warm rich soil. Neglected relationships slowly fade away, like the garden in which weeds gradually take over and the plants wilt and die. Other planets in this report indicate the challenges, the work needed and the strengths that can be relied on to foster your bond. The planet Jupiter is a much-welcomed indicator of growth, and natural strengths that can be relied on to naturally encourage and nurture your union. Continuing with the gardening analogy, Composite Jupiter represents the enjoyment that comes from viewing your garden's growth and bounty. This generous planet shows in which areas of your combined lives you are satisfied, rewarded and happy together. This is your story of the easiest path to growth and expansion. The planet Jupiter is your indicator of the gateway to abundance when you are together. If Jupiter is prominently placed in your Composite Chart then you are likely to believe in the bounty of this union. Astrologers believe that a strong placement involves the 1st, 4th, 7th and 10th Houses of your chart. Even though Jupiter shines positive and expansive rays on one area of your combined lives, you do need to ensure that you do not take this area for granted. Appreciation and gratitude are required for the rewards that your relationship introduces into both of your lives. Keep tending the garden of your relationship and you both flourish.

Jupiter is in the 1st House

This is a strong placement for the bountiful planet Jupiter indicating that good fortune accompanies your union. Together you are joyful, able to express yourselves fully and eagerly embrace each stage of life's journey. You know that you have found a companion who is able to support you, and inspire you, no matter what life throws in your path. In some cases you may be expecting the impossible from each other, but strangely enough your optimism seems to be well rewarded, even if it is in the ability to laugh at yourselves. Laughter is prominent in this relationship, as you feel a sense of ease and expansion. Others are also inspired by your enthusiasm. You might be surprised by the extent of other people's support of your union. "Don't they realise that we have our differences too", you may ask yourselves. Of course you have your differences, and difficulties, but you also have an innate understanding that you will grow closer and stronger through facing rough terrain together. Somehow you do not doubt each other's fidelity. This may be because you share a strong value system, or you share an interest in something that serves humanity such as a religion, spiritual pursuit, philanthropic enterprise, cultural matter or sporting interest. Travel is likely to feature strongly in your union. You are likely to learn much, and gain great joy from local or foreign adventures. If your individual natures are more introverted then you may enjoy armchair travel, the type where you watch travel or nature documentaries, or inspirational foreign films. Of course you could do all of the above together. This is fortunate placement indeed. Enjoy.

INFLUENCES

“Love is begun by time, And time qualifies the spark and fire of it.”
-- William Shakespeare, Hamlet

The Composite Neptune, Uranus and Pluto

Uranus, Neptune and Pluto are considered to be outer planets and as such have an external effect rather than make a personal statement. Nevertheless their impact on personal lives can be significant. Each of these outer planets represents a challenge in its own unique way. Uranus heralds unexpected changes and disruptions, Neptune signals subtle and yet influential modifications, and Pluto portends transformation of a profound nature. The way in which these planets are experienced varies from individual to individual. So too do couples react to varying degrees. If a couple thrives on security and routine then these planets can be quite disruptive. If, on the other hand, you both enjoy freedom and growth then you are likely to thrive on the challenges that these entities cast along your relationship journey. Your desires need to be taken into account when considering the so-called positive and negative influences in the interpretations of these planets and their effect on your Combined Chart.

Uranus is in the 3rd House

This is one of the more positive placements for the planet Uranus. It is not a major influence in this sector and so other indicators need to present for a committed partnership. However whatever the nature of your relationship you are likely to enjoy sparkling conversation and witty repartee when together. You are not necessarily of like mind, but it doesn't matter because you enjoy the stimulation of each other's insights. You can easily bounce ideas off each other and may even join a group with an intellectual bent, common interest, or shared cause. Teaching, writing, social media and other such projects may appeal as a joint venture. Originality is the name of the day and you can both be quite the pioneering couple when it comes to any field associated with communications. You may also share a love of languages. Once again you like anything that stimulates your mind and sparks new ways of thinking. One possible challenge with this planet being in the 3rd House of your Combined Chart is if one of you prefers to follow a more logical and traditional train of thought. If this is the case then you may find that arguments and conflict ensue disrupting the flow of communication. However, even if this is the case, you are most likely to agree to disagree. Either way, this union is one that challenges and changes your way of thinking in unexpected ways. You learn much from being together. Sometimes this placement indicates a student and teacher relationship, or a couple working on a joint project that involves inventive thinking and creative ideas.

Neptune is in the 1st House

Your relationship may confuse other people but both of you have an intuitive understanding of what makes your union work. Others may not share your vision. As long as you both stay in tune all is right with your world. Some astrologers say that this is a difficult placement for any couple creating a cloak of ambiguity through which it is difficult to sustain a lasting bond. However this is not necessarily the case. It is possible that you are both talented individuals and when you are together you feel that the sum is greater than the parts. Together you may sing, dance or perform. One of you may be the performer while the other acts as the manager. It is your joint persona that works, entrancing others and creating a delightful illusion. Your story as a couple beguiles those around you. If you go your separate ways then the story is likely to change, becoming tarnished. It is your image as a couple that creates the magic. If longevity as a couple is your joint goal then the path to success is to ensure that this union has its roots planted firmly in reality. It is true that a lack of understanding of each other's true natures can be a threat to your association. You may feel that you are soulmates but do you really know each other? Are you seeing this relationship in its true light? If the answer to these questions is 'yes' then the reality can sustain the fantasy. The two of you can journey through life exploring artistry, spirituality and mysteries that others dismiss.

Pluto

When we imagine the nature of Pluto, we are more inclined to look down than look up. As the underworld God, Pluto is focused on what lies underneath the surface, in the unseen world of your relationship. Therefore in the Composite Chart it addresses the issues that may be buried, yet potentially eruptive. It depicts the patterns that are hidden, yet still influence you both, even pressures from the past that haunt the current relationship. On one hand it suggests where the relationship may be drawn into difficulty; yet on the other hand, the character of Pluto also represents the transforming and life-altering experiences that are available to your relationship. There is a soulful side to Pluto as it anchors your relationship in a deeper and more authentic place.

Pluto helps illustrate how the power of your relationship might be best expressed. You can be either empowered or dis-empowered depending on how your relationship is able to handle the voltage and power of the energy. The House position of Composite Pluto might address areas of your relationship where loss and emotional confrontations may be experienced. It also locates the area where your relationship can be rebuilt and reborn through trust and intimacy. Pluto addresses the human experience of loss in relationship, the deepest human emotions, issues of betrayal and emotional control which engage the two souls involved in their relationship in a more intimate and trusting union. Alchemical texts depict the process of submerging two individuals in the cauldron of their relationship. When immersed together, alterations and revelations occur. In the context of your relationship, each of you will begin to become more vulnerable to one another in this area of your life. As well, greater patterns from both your families of origin may begin emerge out of the shadows to be healed. This area of your life together will be profound in its capacity to heal past hurts, encourage authenticity and honesty to bring each of you closer together on a soul level.

Pluto moves slowly through the Zodiac spending the least time in Libra and Scorpio and the longest time in Aries and Taurus. Individuals born within the same generation will generally have the same Pluto Sign, unless born near the cusp when Pluto was changing signs. With the same Pluto Signs, the Composite Pluto will be repeated in that sign. With a considerable age gap two individuals may have differing Pluto signs. What is unique to your relationship is Pluto's House position and its association with other Planets.

Pluto is in the 5th House

Astrologically the 5th House is generally portrayed as an amusement park or playground. However, Pluto, the planet in your Composite 5th House, is not generally associated with fun. So what might this mean? Serious fun? It is more likely that in your relationship you play and express your affections to each other in private. You might not demonstrate and express the intensity of your relationship in public, preferring this to be private. However, there is a felt passion and warmth that you exude and others feel. Together you make an engaging couple and others are curious about the nature and content of your intimacy. Therefore take note of others' curiosity about your relationship. The power of your love is strong and is felt by others who may try to undermine your trust. As a team you are magnetic and charismatic. Together you express an energy that is attractive to those who are comfortable with the intensity of truth, yet to those who are not so comfortable with themselves your coupling may be a bit intimidating. You might have noticed that when you first got together there were a few minor tremors in your circle of friends. As a team you might notice that now and again you both trigger a few alarm bells in your social circles.

However the transformation that is taking place is on a personal level. Your personalities and the way you express yourselves have been profoundly altered by your relationship. Your relationship is unearthing more confidence and self-expression. Together you are healing your self-images and helping each other to feel more connected and self-assured. Ironically your deep connection is bringing out more of your own faith and confidence in yourself and each of you is becoming more optimistic and faithful about life. The power in your relationship is its restorative potential, a self-healing that occurs the more you love and cherish one another.

DESTINY AND OPPORTUNITIES

"A heart to love, and in that heart, Courage, to make's love known."
-- William Shakespeare, MacBeth

The Composite Chiron and Nodes

Chiron and the Nodes are both very profound points in a relationship chart as they indicate the true nature of intimacy. Chiron is the key to the emotional truth of the union of two people, and the Nodes relate to the destiny that draws two people to a crossroads in life. When we stand in our own truth, firmly in our own truth then this is the key to emotional honesty and ultimately healing. The outcomes might not always be exactly how we wanted them, but then again they can be better. This is the lesson of Chiron. Our childhood relationships are often out of our control and yet they shape us. How we choose to utilize the experiences is our own responsibility. Chiron encourages us to listen to the heart of our relationship, to respond to each other's truths rather than react. This is easier said than done, but the placement of Chiron in our Composite chart can tell us where we find it hardest to listen to our partner, and yet where it is most vital that we do because here is the opportunity to find the kernel of intimacy that ultimately binds the relationship.

Chiron is in the 1st House

Relationships are delicately balanced at the best of times. A loving relationship offers the opportunity for healing of emotional wounds from the past and personal growth and fulfilment. When two people relate in a tender way then it is possible to provide the greatest opportunities for healing rather than more hurtful experiences. Working through emotionally difficult times is when Chiron is working at its best. At times in relationship, one person may inadvertently trigger the other's hurt feelings. These feelings may be leftover from your childhood, or from a previous relationship. Either way your current relationship is an opportunity to relate differently. A loving union provides the chance to let go of the past and experience intimacy and true love now. This placement of Chiron in your Combined Chart is significant indicating that you are facing a challenge to heal childhood wounds, and become adults within this union. When you are together you may inadvertently hurt each other's feelings. You don't mean to. There is just something about your very existence that is reminder of the other person's parents or childhood authority figures. Someone else can tell your partner the exact same words and ideas that you are trying to communicate. They listen to the other person, but react to you. Why is that? Your challenge is to understand that this is a deep and meaningful relationship, but it is also a bit of an emotional minefield. If you are both persistent then you can learn about each other's vulnerabilities, and exert patience and understanding. Then this can become a loving and safe union, an example to others who may be less aware of the emotional truths of their partners.
